Technical Information No. 09/2018 Hyundai paintwork times for insurance claim

The settlement for an insurance claim does not take into account the time for paint preparation assigned to each individual paint position (as is standard for warranty claims).

It is therefore essential that the AZT (Allianz Zentrum für Technik), Eurolack or other recognised paint calculation systems and their specified times are used when calculating damage via DAT, Audatex or Schwacke.

This can be selected accordingly in the relevant calculation system before creating the calculation.

These specified times take into account the overlap of paint preparation when using multiple paint guideline times and are therefore recognised by insurance companies.
